The Founder

Chuck Stevenson served 20 years of active duty in the U.S. Army and retired in Hawaii as an Army officer with distinguished service. He currently holds the rank of Grand Master in the Kajukenbo Self - Defense System founded by Sijo Adriano D. Emperado. With over 40 years of training and teaching experience in the military and martial arts, Chuck founded a highly effective street combat system known as Dynamic Street S.M.A.R.T. Self-Defense System. He soon realized that additional training was needed to prevent him from being seriously injured or killed. On the street parts of traditional martial arts could fail you, because you don't have time for fancy spinning kicks or cool blocking moves. There's not time. After years of studying different styles and developing techniques that are simple, practical and highly effective street combat techniques, he has created a system based on martial arts and military tactics as used by elite forces. This system is more than simply a martial art. It is a reality-based street combat system where everything is focused on your survival. The system pays no attention to kata, traditional weapons, competition or friendly sparring. This is street survival as you've never seen it.

The System

This state-of-the-art self-defense system is far from being an ordinary Martial Art, it is the wave of the future in hand to hand combat and street fighting. It incorporates both unarmed and armed fighting methods. The word S.M.A.R.T. in this highly effective street combat system stands for Self-Preservation Martial Arts Reactionary Tactics. Unlike many traditional martial arts systems that are technique-oriented, it is a principle-oriented system, which trains you to react to the current situation and adapt as things change.

It's an ideal system to enhance and jump-start your self-defense fighting and survival skills for trained martial artists, military, law enforcement and security personnel, or anyone who would like to immediately enhance their self-defense skills for real life confrontations.

The Structure

The program teaches you how to use easy to learn, devastatingly, simple, and effective hand-to-hand fighting skills that will end any fight with skilled opponents in seconds, including ground grapplers, attackers armed with clubs, knives, guns, or multiple attackers. These pragmatic and practical skills will help you restrain, incapacitate your opponent fast. The system uses simple, practical, and effective tactics against most attackers allowing you to learn quickly. You don't need tremendous strength or ability to get capable to defend yourself.

You will learn how to incapacitate an attacker with one simple move anyone can do. You will learn how to quickly stop an attacker with your bare hands. You will learn how to get into a proper position regardless of how the attack started. Most of all, you will learn the proper mindset that permits you to switch from being a victim to being the aggressor to defend and preserve self and loved ones.

It doesn't make a difference if you're in the worst physical shape of your life, or if you've never hit another person before, or even coordinated. This self-defense system can turn anyone into a potent hand-to-hand fighter. These effective fighting skills are easy to learn, easy to remember, and best of all, easy to use when needed. Just seeing this system in action will change your life forever, and prepare you for the worst. Don't be one who said, "I never thought it would happen to me."
